

Eighteenth Sunday
in Ordinary Time
August 4, 2019

Dear Members and Friends of St. Mary's/
St. Patrick's, and St. Peter's Cathedral:

It is pretty easy to identify the gods of the present age. They are sex, money and power. None of them is an evil. Sex obviously is a good and necessary part of creation. "Male and female he created them." Without it the Sacrament of Marriage and the continuance of the human race would be impossible. None of which is to say that it is a gift easily managed!

Money and power are perhaps more ambiguous blessings, but they too are necessary parts of human existence. The creation and exchange of goods occurs even in the most primitive societies, and some version of money is almost universal in human life.

Power is a broader concept, but at its simplest it is the ability to do things and manage them. For example, without the power of my father to give direction on the family farm, nothing would have flourished. Without the power to direct and discipline their children, parents would be virtually useless. Without the power to organize and direct society, government would be futile and anarchy would prevail.

Like sex, money and power are good things, but if they are misused, all do harm. If they replace God, as they have for so many, they become destructive.

Today's readings remind us especially of the hazards of money and wealth. The preacher in Ecclesiastes and our Lord in the Gospel each remind us of the futility of living for accumulation and prosperity. The fool in the Gospel lives only to eat, drink and be merry. The good things secured by his wealth have become his god, and he goes to destruction.

In today's Latin Epistle St. Paul warns against living for the flesh – which means all human temptations not just sexual ones, as the term flesh is too often misused. The abuse of money and power are very much part of the 'flesh' against which we must struggle.

Dealing as true disciples with money and possessions is a lifelong effort. Good stewardship, equity, support of the Church, and care of the poor are all part of our discipleship. Let us embrace them.

No updates of any significance on the health front. Strength and energy continue to rise slowly, and the hair is growing back. Thanks for all the good-natured compliments on my bald look.

In Christ,

Fr. Klein

This federally-funded program assists low-income Delawareans who need help in meeting home energy costs. LIHEAP makes payments directly to home energy suppliers. The LIHEAP benefit is based on a household's income, size, and type of fuel. In order to qualify, you must make an appointment with a Catholic Charities office for a personal interview. Regular office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. For more information call (302) 654-9295. The application process runs from July 1, 2019 to March 31, 2020.

Word of Life

"Precisely in an age when the inviolable rights of the person are solemnly proclaimed and the value of life is publicly affirmed, the very right to life is being denied or trampled upon, especially at the more significant moments of existence: the moment of birth and the moment of death."
